Changing your Will

If you have already made a Will and would now like to include a gift to Elizabeth Finn Care you can complete this codicil form. A codicil is a supplement to a Will and allows you to amend your existing Will without drawing up a new one.

We recommend that you consult a solicitor about any substantial amendments to an existing Will. It may well be better to have a new Will drafted to avoid confusion, particularly when amending residue. Please do not write on or amend your existing Will as it may invalidate it.

- * If you wish to make a gift of a share of residue then almost certainly a new Will is needed to avoid confusion. A gift of the entire residue may be very significant and we recommend independent legal advice to avoid confusion or a challenge to the codicil
-  It is worth identifying what should happen if the specific item is sold, for instance by adding 'or its sale proceeds' or 'or its replacement'

What do I need to do?

1. Complete the form overleaf (but don't sign it until both your witnesses are present)
2. Ask two adults (of sound mind) to be witnesses. No-one who is your executor or a beneficiary in your Will or any codicil (or anyone married to, or in a civil partnership with, a beneficiary or executor) should be a witness
3. Sign the codicil in ink, using your normal signature, in the presence of both your witnesses
4. Ask both your witnesses to sign and complete their section of the codicil in the presence of you and each other
5. Send your completed codicil to your solicitor or the person who is looking after your Will

Please note

- You and your witnesses should be together, in each other's presence, when you sign the codicil and the witnesses attest
- Do not attach anything to your Will (such as paper clips or pins) as this may cause difficulties in proving your Will later on
- Banks and solicitors do not usually charge for storing a codicil with an existing Will

Letting us know

- If you would like to notify us of your gift, thereby helping us to plan for the future and keep you informed as to how we are spending legacies, please complete and return the attached form.
